The town's rural charm, with its coffee and sugarcane fields, old adobe houses, and friendly street corners, fosters a tight-knit community vibe. It's less touristy than other spots, so you get an authentic slice of Costa Rican life, perfect for those who love a slower pace with deep cultural roots SPORT AND OUTDOOR ACTIVITIES: Turrialba is Central America's adventure-sport capital, and it's not just hype. - Whitewater rafting on the Pacuare and Pejibaye rivers is world-class, with rapids ranging from family-friendly Class II-III to adrenaline-pumping challenges.
